

BROKER HERE ENDS LIFE IN GEORGIA

Reason Ascribed for Suicide of Francis A. Janney in Home

Frank B. Gummy, 4118 Greene street, Philadelphia, whose brother-in-law, Francis Janney, a former broker of this city and a member of the Georgia club, committed suicide last night at Thomsville, Ga., said today that he could advance no reason for his brother-in-law's act.

Janney was sent to this city to the office of Doctor Gummy. He left this city several years ago for Thomsville, Ga., where he was the partner of Henry Diston & Co. of this city. Later he purchased a place there. He was entertaining last night and after the party came to an end he went to a room and shot himself through the head. The shot was heard by his wife, who found him lying on the floor in a pool of blood.

He is survived by his widow, who is Mrs. Helen Register Williams, formerly of Germantown. Her name was Miss Helen Register and she was in Boston, Janney and Mrs. Williams were married in Atlantic City in 1915. In November, 1914, Mrs. Janney divorced from Aubrey Williams, an insurance broker and son of Francis Williams, dramatist and author of articles of historic value.

Janney had been married twice previously. His first wife was Miss Lena Farr of 1018 Spruce street. They were married in 1898 and lived in Wissahickon until April, 1905, when they separated. They had three children, who are now in Italy.

Janney filed a suit for divorce in Philadelphia, and it was granted the following day on the ground of insanity. The divorce in the case was impounded. The grounds of the couple scarcely had reached from their surprise when it was announced that Janney and Miss Katharine Schwartz, of Germantown, had eloped to New York in December, 1906. Miss Schwartz is a sister of Charles W. Schwartz, 111 West Walnut lane, Germantown.

Janney was known as one of the most beautiful young women in Germantown, and a week before her marriage was chosen as the queen of the Mardi Gras at New Orleans. Her second wife won a suit for divorce in 1910. Her family had bitterly opposed the marriage, but finally forgave the bride. Later she married George Newhall, of Charles Newhall, of Chestnut street.

Philadelphia who noticed the storm greeted it with open eyes, open arms and heartfelt sighs of relief.
It was explained, however, that it probably was but a temporary lull in the sun's recent force attack on the city.
The sun's terrific heat drive yesterday not only brought a toll of twelve deaths in Philadelphia, and one on the Main Line, but hundreds of prostrations were reported. The number both in Philadelphia and Camden was the highest ever recorded.
With the mercury registered as high as 114 on many of the warmer streets, steel siders in buildings were expanded enough to be distorted; the third rail of the elevated buckled at Fifty-second street, interrupting the service.
Thousands of workers throughout the city have been laid off owing to the heat.
The heat wave, Forecaster Bliss said, is due to an area of low pressure which started a week ago in southwestern Canada and moved across the Great Lakes. The temperature of the wave airplanned until it reached its maximum as it enveloped Philadelphia.

Boy Drowned; Believed Victim of Heat

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 1.—William White, twelve-year-old son of Theodore White, of Chester, Pa., who had been visiting his grandfather, William White, at White's Island, three miles north of this city, in the Delaware River, was caught in a swift current this afternoon and drowned within sight of a number of Boy Scouts who went to his assistance after he had appealed for aid. The body was recovered in ten feet of water a few minutes after it had gone down for the last time and a second or two after one of the would-be rescuers had reached out to grab the boy. It is believed the heat affected the victim.

CHESTNUT ST. REPAIRING TO MOVE QUICKLY NOW

Proposed Protest Meeting of Business Men's Association Deferred
Assured that the work of repaving Chestnut street will proceed with as little delay as possible, the Chestnut Street Business Men's Association will withhold its proposed protest to city officials.
For two weeks business men in Chestnut street have been protesting against the delay of Senator McNichol's contracting firm, and in order to get action the business men called a meeting of the association directors for tomorrow noon.
Today the highway department notified the association officials that there would be no further delay, and that the tie-up is due to the inability of the contractors to obtain wood paving blocks. A big consignment of the blocks arrived today, and highway officials promised that the work would be pushed rapidly.
Because of the difficulty in obtaining materials, the work has been delayed more than two weeks. Business men have suffered losses because of the condition of the street, but feel that war conditions are responsible and will accept their losses with good grace.

Today Begins the Biggest August Sale in the Great Furniture Store of America

WHEN this great factory-store opens its doors today, the biggest August Sale in the history of our business will be officially ushered in. The biggest Sale in two respects—the two important respects—immensity and variety of the stock presented and attractiveness of the values offered. To obtain the former we have culled the choicest products of over four hundred of America's most reputable furniture manufacturers and kept our own plant going at high speed for many months. The latter advantage—lower prices—we owe to our position in the furniture field as manufacturers as well as retailers, to our foreseeing a continually advancing market and making early preparations against it. Also, and these are important factors, to our specialization in furniture and furnishings and our inexpensive, yet prominent and easily accessible location. With more and more of our artisans leaving the workshops for the camp and with the growing diversion of our lumber output to shipbuilding and military purposes, it is inevitable that furniture must advance and continue to advance. Therefore, we urge upon our patrons, upon all who have or expect to have a home, the desirability of early buying, of taking to the full, the unequalled advantages of this August Sale.
